*Seven instructional days are banked through an additional fifteen minutes of daily instructional time provided during the school year, however calendar regulations require at least 170 student instructional days unless the District operates under an alternative calendar. Therefore, four instructional banked days are available with Board approval to be used to replace instructional days missed during the school year.
*2011-2012 Calendar stipulations addressing missed school days: December 19 and 20 will be student instructional days, if days are missed before Christmas break. The first two days of spring break, April 9 and 10 will be student instructional days, if 15 or more days are missed during the school year.
